The art of living in the Alpilles: where history embraces Provence There are places that aren't just beautiful; they tell a story, envelop you in their soul, and offer you a moment outside of time. This property, nestled in Maussane-les-Alpilles, is one of them. Once a hunting lodge in the 17th century, it has survived the centuries without losing an ounce of its authenticity. Today, it opens its doors to those seeking more than a home: an experience, a refuge, a way of life. Imagine yourself crossing the ancient stone walls, warmed by the Provençal sun. Around you, the Alpilles mountains, the song of the cicadas, the scent of wild thyme, and you can feel the gentle breeze of the mistral wind in the nearby olive groves. Such a peaceful atmosphere, no neighbors. Just you, nature, and history. Inside, old-world charm meets modern comfort. The four master bedrooms, each with their own private bathroom, offer space and privacy. The French-style ceilings, the patinated floors, and the ancient vaulted ceilings—every detail recalls the deep roots of this place. In the garden, a world apart opens up to you. A nap in the shade beneath the pine trees, a cool game of boules, a dip in the light-filled pool. And to prolong the pleasures, an outbuilding welcomes you, ideal for entertaining your guests. Today, this property is more than just a piece of real estate; it's a promise. The promise of a life in Provence, sweet, authentic, and intense. A promise of sunsets over the Alpilles, fragrant markets at dawn, and summer evenings under the stars. What if you came to discover this place where every stone tells a story, and where every moment becomes a memory? A hidden treasure in the heart of the Alpilles mountains, pure authenticity. A true family home, your private haven, and a place to share your knowledge. Contact us.
