House 3695 Saint-Rémy-de-Provence

A superb property with breathtaking views, located in the heart of the Alpilles mountains, offering rare features and attention to detail. At the bend in one of the region's most beautiful roads, the gate opens onto an avenue of cypress trees leading to the three-hundred-year-old olive tree that guards the entrance to the building. Reminiscent of a hamlet, the first courtyard, adorned with an ancient fountain, welcomes visitors and gives access to a suite treated as an independent studio, a gym and sauna, and the main door of the house, which opens onto an incredible panorama. Like a painting, the Alpilles mountains literally come into view. Having set the tone, the visit continues through a succession of beautiful volumes, always open to the outdoors, with terraces all extended by panoramic views: custom-built dinatory kitchen with top-of-the-range equipment, dining area, hallway treated as a tasting/cellar area leading to a vast cathedral lounge and its monumental fireplace. A hallway behind an old Indian door gives access to a suite with dressing room, bathroom, toilet and French window, making it also independent. Returning to the main entrance and its checkroom, utilities and laundry room, another wing features another suite - still open to the views from its private terrace - with its vast shower room, wc and duplex office. The main staircase leads to two further suites (with en-suite shower room, dressing room and wc), with uninterrupted views of the unspoilt panorama. This level can also be
