House 3992 Uzès

Superb stone property of nearly 500 m² dating back to the 17th century, located in the highly sought-after Pont du Gard area, on the Uzès-Nîmes axis. It has undergone a high-quality renovation, carried out with great expertise to preserve the authenticity of the original farmhouse. Built on a large enclosed and wooded plot of more than 4.6 hectares, sheltered from all eyes and completely free from any disturbance, this residence boasts numerous features that make it truly exceptional. The stunning exterior offers a 12 x 4 m² swimming pool, a pétanque court, and many shaded areas ideal for relaxation and escape. Outbuildings—some capable of housing up to three vehicles—spacious terraces, covered or not, a delightful courtyard, and even private access to the Gardon River are also part of this extraordinary property's amenities. Inside, the charm continues with the generous volumes and the light flooding through large south-facing openings. Architectural details such as French-style ceilings, arches, and the magnificent stone fireplace in the living room... along with the comfort provided by a spacious kitchen (extending into a pantry and cold room) enhance the ground floor. Not to be forgotten are the utility room, which also serves as a laundry area, and the separate toilets. The upper floor offers no fewer than six bedrooms arranged in an unusual layout, including one currently used as an office, while a second office is set up in the dovecote, which features a panoramic terrace. A master suite with a
